Breaking Promises:
The Young’s Declining Share of the Economic Pie

Wednesday, March 9 | 5:30 p.m. | International House, Chevron

Do we need to make major changes so that millennials can enjoy the same economic opportunities as previous generations? How can our young citizens be more engaged in the political process that will shape their future? Join Geoffrey Canada and Stanley Druckenmiller for a conversation on how current government policies and practices stack up for younger generations.

Geoffrey Canada is President and Founder of the Harlem Children’s Zone® (HCZ). Having worked with HCZ for more than 30 years, Mr. Canada is renowned around the world for his pioneering work helping children and families in Harlem. He is a passionate advocate for education reform. In 2011, TIME named Mr. Canada one of the 100 most influential people in the world. In March 2014, Fortune named him one of the 50 greatest leaders in the world.

Stanley Druckenmiller is Chairman of the Board of the Harlem Children’s Zone and a Board member of the Environmental Defense Fund. He is Chairman and CEO of Duquesne Family Office LLC. In 1981, Mr. Druckenmiller founded Duquesne Capital Management, which he ran until he closed the firm in 2010. From 1988 to 2000, he was a Managing Director at Soros Fund Management, where he served as Chief Investment Officer and had overall responsibility for funds with a peak asset value of $22 billion.
